Michael P. Fenlon, ARM, ARe, CPCU
Sr. Director, UPS Global Risk Management
United Parcel Service, Inc. (UPS)

Mike is the Sr. Director of Global Risk Management for UPS headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia.

UPS is the World's Largest Package Delivery Company & Global Leader in Supply Chain Services.

Mike joined UPS in 1993 and currently has responsibility for overseeing all worldwide risk management programs. This includes program management responsibilities for workers compensation, auto liability, general liability, cargo and warehouse liability, management liability, Property, Cyber, and aviation hull and liability programs. Additional responsibilities include management of all property, cargo, workers compensation and liability claims, and management of three captive insurance companies.

Key committee roles include responsibilities as core member of UPS Enterprise Risk Steering Committee and UPS Business Continuity Management (BCM) Steering Committee and a member of the Information Security Council.

Prior to his current role, Mike held several other positions on the corporate side in risk management and worked in the commercial claims area with a major insurance carrier.

Mike graduated from the University of Georgia with a BBA in Risk Management in 1986 and also received his MBA from Georgia State University in 1994. He holds ARM, ARE, and CPCU designations.

Associations:
Mike has been an active member of RIMS (Risk and Insurance Management Society) over the years serving in various roles for the Atlanta chapter. At the national level, he served on the RIMS Board of Directors from 2000 through 2006 and served on the RIMS External Affairs Committee from 2006 through 2009.

Workers Compensation Research Institute (WCRI) – Board Member since 2004 – Served as Chair 2009 through 2012.