Motivation

I am a life-long learner who treasures innovation, collaboration and efficiency. I want healthcare to work better so I diligently seek to solve real-life private practice problems, inspire innovation and equip others to do the same.

I am a fierce proponent of cost transparency and disruptive innovation within the healthcare marketplace, with a particular focus on independent physician practice and ambulatory surgery centers. Fueled by a belief that the private practice of medicine is a critical component of cost-effective, efficient and quality healthcare, I have always strived to mitigate administrative burdens so providers can focus on rendering exceptional care.
