

Delphia Frisch

Delphia is the EVP/Chief Operating Officer of Genex Services, LLC. She has many years of diversified senior and executive leadership roles at Genex within operations and sales. She is responsible for the delivery of all company service lines across the broad spectrum of Genex managed care services. As the executive leader of Operations for ~25 years, she has had a prominent role in steering the company through various corporate structures including several private equity investment partners.

Delphia is a frequent author of industry publications related to Workers Compensation and Managed Care. She was recognized by Business Insurance in their annual Women to Watch award program. She earned a Bachelor's degree in Communications and Business from Lipscomb University.