Experience: Shaun Aulita is originally from New Orleans, Louisiana. She began her career 30 years ago as a maritime claims specialist, handling USL&H, Jones Act and P&I matters for employers around the globe. Shaun worked for several major carriers in numerous parts of the country including being a USL&H national claims manager for a major carrier. She then obtained her education and credentials to offer a variety of vocational related services for private individuals, lawyers, courts and public agencies following life changing events such as an injury, diagnosis of a medical condition, or individuals going through a divorce. Shaun Aulita provides information about specific jobs, income and employment potential, and loss of income. Additionally, she provides expert witness testimony in vocational assessments and life care planning.

Her mission as a vocational specialist and life care planner is to offer an objective product through experience and credible methods, using methodology based on published peer reviewed standards. Evaluations include those in Florida, nationally and internationally.
