

PAOLO LONGO, ESQUIRE

Mr. Longo is a partner in the Orlando office of Bichler, Oliver, Longo & Fox. A native Floridian, Mr. Longo has spent his legal career representing Florida's injured, specializing in the representation of law enforcement and firefighters. Mr. Longo received his B.A. from the University of Alabama and J.D. from St. Thomas University School of Law and has been representing Florida's injured workers for over 15 years. He is a Supreme Court Certified Circuit Court Mediator and is AV rated by Martindale-Hubbell. He also has published articles and lectured on injured undocumented workers in Florida and is a regular speaker on the topic of Florida's Heart and Lung Bill. Mr. Longo is bilingual and represents injured workers in the Hispanic community in both workers' compensation claims and all areas of personal injury, including automobile/truck accidents, premises liability and wrongful death. He served as an adjunct professor at Valencia Community College. Mr. Longo is the proud father of four and he and his wife spend their free time enjoying Florida's many beaches.