

Roy J. Park

Managing Partner – Orange County

Roy received his Bachelor of Arts in Economics from the University of California in Irvine in 1997 and his Juris Doctorate from the University of California in Davis, KingHall School of Law in 2002. He began his years of practice working with a solo practitioner handling cases ranging from business transactions and litigation, felony criminal defense, immigration and family law. Since 2004, he has specialized in Workers' Compensation defense and worked at several prominent Workers' Compensation defense firms in Southern California. Roy has extensive trial experience and has lectured numerous times on various workers' compensation subjects for professional groups.

In his free time Roy likes to golf, play music, and is a semi-professional high-five giver.