ROBIN CARAL SHAW is certified as a Florida Circuit Civil, Family, and Appellate Mediator, and is a Qualified Arbitrator. She is a mediator for the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of Florida, and is an approved Appellate Specialist, and Circuit Civil and Family Law Assistant Trainer.   She is also a volunteer grievance mediator for the Florida Bar, a mediator for the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of Florida, and a Florida qualified arbitrator.

Robin is Chairman of the Professional Mediation Institute and is Past President of both the Association of South Florida Mediators and Arbitrators, and the Florida Academy of Professional Mediators and holds the status of Diplomate of that organization. She has been a regular presenter at local and national conferences and workshops on mediation since 2000, including topics like "Breaking Impasse: a New Approach", "Tips and Tools for Managing Emotions in Mediation", and "Mediating with Difficult People". She is also a frequent lecturer in the areas of Ethics, Diversity, and Domestic Violence, as well as on "the law as entertainment" where her programs discuss crazy Florida cases, celebrity trials, and legal fiction and non-fiction in literature and film.

Robin is admitted to practice law in Florida, the District of Columbia, and Pennsylvania, as well as Federal Courts, and practices transactional law in areas ranging from buying and selling businesses to art and entertainment law and collaborative divorce. She was in the Scholar's Program at Brooklyn College of the City University of New York where she earned a dual Bachelor of Arts degree (cum laude) in Psychology and Political Science with a Minor in French, and her J.D. is from Fordham University (after spending two years at the Georgetown University Law Center as a Visiting Student).

Robin is a graduate of the NY High School of Performing Arts (the "Fame" high school) and was an apprentice with the NYC Ballet Company, among other theater credits.
